Dear Iona Community,

NATIONAL PERCUSSION CHAMPIONSHIPS

It is with great joy that I inform our entire Iona Community that our Percussion Ensemble were recently crowned National Champions. This is an amazingly wonderful achievement and the result of considerable talent, dedication and hard work. I thank Mr Neil Hall and every student involved. We received positive feedback on the way in which the boys conducted themselves in the competition. This brings me even greater joy than any results. I would also like to thank Mr Tom O’Kelly for the wonderful gift of Zildjian Constantinople 18 inch crash cymbals from Just Percussion. This gift will be treasured and continue to contribute to Iona music in the years to come.

MUSIC RECITALS

I particularly enjoyed the Music Recital night during the week, where each student took another step on their musical pathway. There were nerves, confidence and soaring performances and I was very glad to have been able to attend. We should always remember the value of music and the arts within our Iona Community.

ART EXHIBITION

It was indeed a privilege to attend the Art Works Exhibition in the Fr Peter Daly Art Precinct. I was genuinely pleased to see so many people take the time to appreciate the talents, insights and aspirations of our resident student artists. The works of art evoked deep emotions and reactions and were an insight into the minds of the boys. I thank the staff, students and parents who helped bring about this truly wonderful occasion.

OBLATE MISSION ACTION DAY

Friday 26 August will see the College celebrate Oblate Mission Action Day. In this our 200th year, we know that our generosity reaches to lands far away but hearts that are close. Our Oblate family in Asia and Africa are a part of our Oblate family here in Australia. We stand in solidarity, like Jesus with people in need and the true heart of Iona beats stronger when we are generous. This is at the core of our identity and I have every confidence that Iona families, staff and students will reflect that. On behalf of Fr Lewy Keelty O.M.I., Fr John David O.M.I. and myself, I say Thank You.

ACTING RECTOR

Last week I announced that I was heading off this weekend for a sabbatical (spiritual rest and break) and I am certainly grateful for that opportunity. It has been decided that while I am away on my sabbatical, Mr Damian Courtney would assume the role of Acting Rector. (August 28 - October 11)

The College has undertaken a comprehensive review of Workplace Health and Safety as well as a comprehensive review of our risk and compliance obligations. The decision to appoint Mr Courtney will enable other members of the CLT to continue to focus on their significant areas of responsibility. I thank the entire College Leadership Team for their stepping up and leading the College while I am away and I also thank Mr Courtney for his generosity and trust that he will receive your full support. I look forward to returning on the 11 October to be with you all.

INTRODUCING REDLAND BAY – 4165

This week it gives me great pleasure to introduce beautiful Redland Bay to our Iona community. It is a considerable distance for students to travel, but we are very happy that Redland Bay is a part of the Iona family. I hope that this article inspires you to make a visit to this very wonderful place.

Redland Bay, a suburb facing Moreton Bay, is 31 km south-east of Brisbane and is part of Redland City. It is named after the rich volcanic soil found on much of the Redland Shire’s area, including several off-shore islands. Known as krasnozem soil, it has high mineral and organic components, and produced a substantial amount of Brisbane’s market garden produce. The township of Point Talburpin is also part of Redland Bay.

The Quandamooka people have called this region home for thousands of years and lived a sustainable life.

Iona College seeks to provide a dynamic Catholic learning community within the Oblate spirit, so that its members are faith-filled, resilient, courageous, well-balanced and prepared to make a difference.

among the rich treasures of the area. Their name for the Redland Bay region was Talwalpin after the cottonwood tree which was widespread in the area.

Since the first European settlers arrived in the mid-19th century, Redland Bay has remained a farming and fishing-based area until the mid-20th century when some of the farms were subdivided and improved transport infrastructure made it possible for residents to commute the 31 kilometres into Brisbane.

The land was settled by farm selectors in the 1860s-70s, who cleared tangled shoreline scrub and forest land further from the coast. Excellent timber was used for the first slab huts and later steep-pitched ‘Queenslander’ dwellings. Sugar cane plantations were tried quite early and a mill was operated during the 1870s. Cotton and rice were also tried. Cane was replaced by banana growing, and that was overtaken by pineapples and citrus in the 1890s. A Methodist church was opened in 1885, Redland Bay Primary School the following year and a school of arts in 1889. In common with Wellington Point, Redland Bay drew the attention of land subdividers in 1890, but with less success because of the lack of a railway.

Redland Bay remained determinedly agricultural for more than three-quarters of the twentieth century. The township had fewer than 1000 people in 1976, and was best known for its fruit, vegetables and the Moreton Bay boat services from its jetties to Russell, Macleay, Stradbroke and Karragarra Islands.

From 1953 to 1971, Qantas Empire Flying Boats operated from Redland Bay. These were mainly Sunderland flying boats traveling from Sydney to the United Kingdom. Ansett, formerly known as Barrier Reef Airways also operated flying boats from Redland Bay, taking tourists to Hayman Island in North Queensland.

Redland Bay was the closest suitable site to Brisbane for a water airport. Since it operated international flights, Brisbane Water Airport at Redland Bay became Brisbane’s International Airport for a time.

Pre-1946, flying boats used the Hamilton Reach of the Brisbane River. The State and Federal Governments argued for several years over the continued use of the Hamilton Reach, which was congested with shipping and unusable after dark.

Activity at Redland Bay reached its peak in the 1950s with one hundred and five commercial flying boat movements in July 1953. There was a steady decline after that until the base was finally closed in 1971. After 1971, Qantas began operating the new Boeing 747 long-haul aircraft that made the Flying Boats obsolete.

The terminal for the Flying Boat Base was at Banana Street, Redland Bay, near the present location of the Bay Island ferry service. Flying boat passengers waiting to embark, and those in transit could wait and be refreshed at the Redland Bay Hotel while the Flying Boats were serviced for the onward journey.

The flying boat would leave Rose Bay in Sydney at 7.30pm and arrive at Redland Bay at around 11.00pm. Two hours later, she was back in the air, en route to Nouméa in New Caledonia, where passengers would go ashore for breakfast. Several days, and many stops later, the flying boat would arrive in London. By contrast, in 2009, travelling on a long-haul 747, passengers can fly direct from Brisbane to London via Singapore in less than 24 hours for a mere fraction of the cost.

The arrival of the flying boat in Redland Bay near midnight did not go unnoticed by the local residents. A powerful searchlight swept the watery runway to guide the pilot. Launches carrying passengers, luggage, fuel, freight, refreshments and mail made their way to and from the moored flying boat. Voices carried clearly across the calm water.

The Qantas service to Nouméa flying boat came to an end in the mid-1970s, to be replaced by direct flights between Sydney and la Tontouta airport by DC4, DC6b, Lockheed Electra, Boeing 707 and Boeing 747 successively.

Here is a quote from flying boat passenger of the time, Tom Nunan: "Flying was still an adventure then and . . . we were issued with a red Qantas Travel Bag. We travelled to the small Qantas office in Creek Street where luggage was weighed and handed over and we were weighed individually. We were taken to Redland Bay by car. Redland Bay in those days was the bush to anyone living in Brisbane and we seemed to take a long time getting there. My impression of the Sandringham was comfortable seats, plenty of room and the ability to move around freely i

In Barry Kidd’s 1979 Redland illustrated History he writes 'Redland Bay is arguably the most unchanged and fertile land within the entire Redlands area. The suburban sprawl has managed only scant inroads to a few pockets of land, but the remaining farmers have stubbornly resisted even the juiciest of offers from land developers, preferring a continuation of their inherited lifestyle.'

In the two decades that followed, the decision was made by the Redland Shire Council to permit suburban development in and around Redland Bay. With land zoning changing from rural to residential, and the corresponding steep rise in rates (local government land tax), Redland Bay's farmers found they could no longer compete with other farming areas not as close to a major metropolitan area. One by one the farms were sold to land development companies, and Redland Bay, by the year 2002 farming had all but ceased.

Redland Bay is also home to Kindilan Outdoor Learning Centre. It has been owned and operated by Guides Queensland since 1949 and has welcomed and challenged generations of you people ever since.

The Catholic Church has served the people of Redland Bay through the parish and school at St Rita’s in Victoria Point. St Rita’s Primary School opened in 1993 and continue to provide excellent educational opportunities to its students and community. We have welcomed students from St Rita’s for many years and happily hope that this continues.

Once again, it would be neglectful not to mention the sheer beauty of Redland Bay and wider Moreton Bay. Redland Bay certainly takes its place among the most scenic coastlines in our country as I hope the following photos demonstrate. I encourage you to take the journey to Redland Bay and discover its wonderful beauty.

Take Care and God Bless

LEARNING AND TEACHING

PARENTS MAKE A DIFFERENCE

Whilst the greatest source of variance on students’ achievement at school is the teacher, there is no doubt that it is the parents, carers and families who are by far the most important influences on children’s lives. Parents can help promote a learning community in which pupils positively engage in and progress through the learning process. Studies have shown that students who have parents who support their school show better learning, healthier self-esteem and more positive attitudes and behaviour in life. Where parents develop a positive relationship with their child’s school, there is usually effective communication that benefits students, parents and teachers.

PARENT TEACHER INTERVIEWS

One of the most important opportunities for school-home collaboration is parent teacher interviews. Thank you to all parents who were able to attend Tuesday’s parent teacher interviews to discuss their son’s progress.

YEAR 10 SUBJECT SELECTION INTERVIEWS

The Year 10 Subject Selection process has now finished with most students being able to study their first options. Unfortunately, due to the very small number of students who selected it, the subject Information Processing Technology (IPT) will not proceed for Year 11, 2017. All students who had indicated they would like to study this have been seen personally and advised. They are all able to study their reserve subject and, at this stage, have indicated they are happy to proceed with this option.

YEAR 12 - QCS TEST

Next Tuesday and Wednesday (30 and 31 August), many of our Year 12 students will sit the QCS test, consisting of four papers - a Writing Task (of 600 words), a Short Response paper and two Multiple Choice papers.

As these tests are integral to the OP calculation process, they are extremely important for successful end of year outcomes.

All OP eligible students must sit the test in order to attain an OP. OP ineligible students may choose to sit the test but those who elect not to participate are not required at school on Tuesday or Wednesday.

Students wishing to take up this option must return the parental permission letters that were emailed to parents this week.

Whilst the boys have had many preparation lessons and practice papers that have given them a good idea of what to expect, sitting the QCS test can nonetheless be a stressful time for students. Parents can assist their sons by ensuring they have all equipment ready (as per the Information for Students flyer handed out to students), they eat a nutritious dinner and they get a good night’s sleep. If possible, students should avoid taking work shifts on Monday 29 or Tuesday 30 August. The tests are quite draining and working after the first day is not the best preparation for the second day of testing.

A free breakfast on both Tuesday and Wednesday has been organized for the Year 12s, commencing at 8.00am in the outdoor area behind Oblate Hall.

Other students within the College are asked to show consideration when moving around Oblate Hall. Those students with lockers in the hall’s vicinity are asked to quickly and quietly get their books/lunch etc and move away from the area. No student should be sitting in the Oblate Annex area throughout the duration of the QCS test.

We wish all students our support and best wishes for the upcoming days.

WORLD YOUTH DAY PILGRIMS RETURN

by Year 11 Student and Pilgrim: Nicholas Lee

Two weeks ago, my god-brother Samuel Eastgate (Year 12 Student) and I, travelled into Central Europe to go on a pilgrimage for World Youth Day. We both visited many historical buildings, museums, beautifully decorated churches and attended a Papal Mass with three million other pilgrims worldwide.

The two Iona pilgrims went with fifty members of our Catholic Church, which has supported World Youth Day since 1989. That year, my parents attended World Youth Day in Santiago de Compestella, Spain.

Also on this WYD experience, it was a privilege to travel to the place where Pope John Paul II lived in Krakow, Poland.

I was hoping to see the places where Oblate Brother Anthony was familiar with, but instead we visited a church with a museum run by Polish Oblates. Inside the museum was a relic that is said to contain pieces of wood from the cross on which Christ was crucified.

We both met people from different countries, as well as gaining memories that will last for the rest of our lives. It was a demanding pilgrimage, but so good, and we are certainly willing to travel to the next World Youth Day, which will be held in Panama in 2019.

PRAYER FOR PILGRIMS

Creator God,

You know our beginning and our end.

Help us to realise that we are only pilgrims on this earth as we journey towards our home with you.

May we experience the freedom to journey, the freedom to love and the freedom to reach out to those in need.

May God the Father who created us, guide our footsteps.

May God the Son who redeemed us, share our journey.

And may God the Holy Spirit who sanctifies us, lead us on life’s pilgrimage.

Amen.

REQUIESCAT IN PACE

Please keep in your thoughts and prayers the family and friends of the following who have recently passed away:

† Mrs Lorna Madden, mother of Old Boy Mark Madden (class of 1982) and grandmother of Karl Madden (5B).

† Mr Joe Walsh, grandfather of Oisi’n Scurry, gap year student at Iona.

May they rest in the Lord’s everlasting peace.
MUSIC CONCERT 4
‘An Afternoon of Strings and Guitars’

All are welcome this Sunday 28 August in the IPAC foyer for a wonderful ‘Afternoon of Strings and Guitars’. Our string and guitar ensembles all look forward to performing for you. This is always a well attended afternoon and enjoyed by many. The light filled foyer adds a great feeling along with the cheese platters and refreshments from the bar. We look forward to seeing you there for a start time of 3.30pm.

AUSTRALIAN PERCUSSION EISTEDDFOD

Our Senior Percussion Ensemble travelled to Melbourne last weekend to compete in the annual Australian Percussion Eisteddfod. A big congratulations to these young men and their conductor Mr Neil Hall who went on to place 1st in the high school section of the event. These students and their supportive families, along with Mr Hall show a great deal of dedication throughout the year and this result is testament to their continued hard work. Mr Harvey also attended and all students are to be commended on their behaviour over the weekend.

CONGRATULATIONS

Our Iona Boys Choir performed at last week’s opening night of the Iona Art Show. These young voices, who are conducted by Mrs Aimee McDonald and accompanied by Mrs Karen Corkeron, were outstanding. They need to be congratulated on their terrific performances and the professionalism they showed at such a young age. Well done!

RECENT SERIES 2 CONCERT

We had a great night on Wednesday night at our Recital Series 2 Concert which incorporated Solos and Small Groups. This event, where students often nominate themselves to perform, is a wonderful opportunity for our students and family to enjoy a terrific night of music in the Lecture Theatre. Performing solo or with a small group of friends offers an opportunity to perform in a smaller and more casual venue than IPAC. Congratulations to all boys who performed.

LOST PROPERTY FROM QCCMF

The organisers of the Queensland Catholic Colleges Music Festival are contacting all schools suggesting that they have a collection of ‘lost property’. If anyone has misplaced anything recently, please contact Mrs Zullo in the Music Office.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC LESSONS

Please remember that instrumental music lessons are available to all current students at the College, new or old. Please visit our Music Department Office under IPAC to discuss your requirements and collect an enrolment form. If for whatever reason, your son needs to withdraw from lessons, please email me the details so that your son can be removed from our billing and timetabling process.

YEAR 5 GRANDPARENTS’ DAY
Grandparents’ Day last Friday was another wonderful College event for our youngest students who proudly showed off their talents and the numerous school facilities. Congratulations to Gabriel Sampaolesi for winning the nail-biting finale of the Spelling Bee.

My thanks to the following groups of people who all greatly contributed to the success of the day: the Year 5 teachers, the Music Department, the IPAC staff, the Groundstaff, the Tuckshop staff and the Year 5 parents who generously volunteered their time to prepare and serve morning tea for our special guests.

LADS’ AND DADS’ BREAKFAST
Limited tickets are available through Trybooking for the Lads’ and Dads’ Breakfast next Friday 2 September. Our guest speakers on the morning will be former Wallabies and current Iona parents, Tom Lawton and Dan Crowley. A staff table will be available for students who are unable to have their dad or another male significant family member attend. Please contact Mrs Gaynor Begley (begleyg@iona.qld.edu.au) if your son would like to sit at this table.

YEAR 5 GRANDPARENTS’ DAY
HEROES OF THE IONA COMMUNITY

A big heartfelt thank you goes out to the amazing team of parent, ex-student and staff helpers who came to the call of “HELP” and generously gave us their time in the setup of the Iona Art Project this year. Without you the doors would not open!

Over 2000 artworks were hung in the space of four days for opening night on Friday 19 August. Twenty students from Year 5 – 12 won special awards on the evening including the coveted “Artist’s Choice” and “People’s Choice” awards in Year 11 and 12. More news of our award winners is coming next week…

KIANAWAH QUILTERS

A special mention must also go to Mrs Rachel Clarkson and Mrs Patricia Jefferies members of the Kianawah quilters who are responsible for the beautiful quilt project that can be seen hanging in the art gallery. As part of a 4-year ongoing project with Iona students the finished product is truly magnificent and we thank Rachel and Pat for their exquisite work.

The Quilt is the result of collaboration between students of Iona College and the Kianawah Quilters. Students were provided with squares of white fabric on which they screen printed images of College life. Whilst most student’s designs retained the white background some chose a coloured one. The circular design was used to represent the circle of life representing a continuous education. The few purple blocks were carefully cut to represent students and placed at the centre of the circle demonstrating the students as the central focus and the ‘raison d’etre’ of the College.

The centre is encompassed by a circle of blue and black blocks to represent school life and education, illustrating the many areas including formal teaching, art, music and sport. These blocks were interspersed with colour painted blocks depicting many colourful and memorable characters that are an essential part of the school experience. Leading to the forming of lifetime friendships with fellow students, priests, teachers and/or support staff.

The overall design depicts how each Iona student’s contribution in life’s warp and weft is woven into the web of College life with each collaborating seamlessly in the development of the whole. The pieces in each band of the circle build on the foregoing pieces thus demonstrating how the achievements of those students who went before, provide a foundation for those who come after.

The Quilt was designed by Kianawah Quilters members Patricia Jefferies and Rachael Clarkson, both mothers of present and past Iona students, using the art work created by Iona students. It was pieced, sewn and quilted in 2016 as an acknowledgement of the support provided by the College to the Kianawah Quilters over many years.

THE FOLLOWING ARTICLE WAS PUBLISHED IN THE CATHOLIC LEADER ON 19 AUGUST, 2016

BRISBANE Lions footballer Tom Bell returned to his old school, Iona College, to deliver a stirring message to young athletes.

Be determined, be committed and don’t let knockbacks stop you, he told Iona boys preparing for AIC cross-country championships.

And Bell should know. He held a dream of playing AFL football but was knocked back three times from the rookie draft – enough for most young men to give the game away.

“To finish the draft and not get picked up, to be honest, it fuelled a fire in my belly,” Bell told the young Iona athletes.

“The first year it happened I thought that’s it. The second year same thing happened, I was talking to a Melbourne club but didn’t get picked up.

“After that I said I’m just going to give it everything so I had to make a lot of sacrifices.

“That next year I really knuckled down with my diet, wasn’t going out as much with my friends, just focused on my football. And I think determination is what got me to an AFL list.”

Bell attended Iona College in Lindum throughout his schooling and graduated with future AFL players Tom Hickey and Josh Thomas in 2008.

But Bell said while football was a passion, he really questioned his abilities.

“Growing up I didn’t make any rep teams so I never really thought I could play football,” he said.

He was however an outstanding middle-distance and cross-country athlete for Iona College.

As an under-13 athlete he won the AIC 3km cross-country, finishing 45 seconds clear of his nearest rival. It’s a win imprinted in college memories.

“To be honest I didn’t think I was going to win by that much,” he said. “It was a privilege to represent Iona … my main memory is probably coming down that finishing line and everyone from the team and the school was cheering me on.”

After school, Bell joined the NEAFL’s Morningside Australian Football Club in 2010, and was a regular senior player by 2011; in that season, he played 20 games for the club, and made his name as a wing and halfback player.

While playing in the NEAFL, Bell was selected in the Queensland under-21 team, and also played a handful of games for the Brisbane Lions reserves.

Outside of football, he undertook an apprenticeship as a refrigeration mechanic.

After three draft knockbacks, Bell, by now a big-bodied midfielder standing 187cm tall, was recruited to Carlton through the 2012 rookie draft.

He had to adapt to the Victorian winter, and again, his hard work and commitment paid off.

He made his debut in Round 17, 2012, against the Western Bulldogs, and went on to earn the Blues’ Best First Year Player Award.

In 2014, Tom Bell played 13 games and had a season highlight in Round 20 vs Gold Coast when he amassed 19 disposals and booted four goals to earn his first Brownlow Medal vote.

He also broke his finger, which became a complicated injury. “To be honest I didn’t really listen to the doctors. I thought I was invincible and come back in two weeks and play,” he said. “I played with stitches and a plate in my finger and it ended up getting infected and I was out for seven weeks.

“From now on I listen to my physios and doctors and if I am not right to train or run, I sit down and listen to the physios and doctors.”

At the end of the 2015 season, Bell was traded to the Brisbane Lions – a move which he described as “really good”.

“It’s nice to come home and finally don the colours,” he said. Despite his hard-work ethic, Bell, like most players, does not enjoy the rigour of pre-season training.

“It’s quite tough. A lot of people think footballers will train in the morning and get the afternoon off to go surfing or play Xbox,” he said. “Pre-season is not like that.”

This year Bell said he would arrive at the club at seven in the morning, “It’s really good. A lot of people think footballers will train in the morning and get the afternoon off to go surfing or play Xbox,” he said. “Pre-season is not like that.”

2016 THEATRESPORTS COMPETITION

Last Monday night was a great evening of laughter and healthy competition. IPAC was filled with festivities for the 2016 Inter-house Theatresports Competition. We welcomed back eight old boys, one from each house, to adjudicate. Thank you to past-participants Oliver Chapman (Albini), Sean Burke (Anthony), Alex Jumisic (Cebula), Darcy Love (Charlebois), Chris Nightingale (Grandin), Kynnan McInnes (Gerard), Sean West (Mazenod) and Kristian Frank (Mazenod) for giving up their time to relive their schooling days. Thank you also to Daniel Draper (Charlebois class of 2014) who assisted the judges and Dominic Randall (current student) for timekeeping.

The results were as follows:

1st Grandin – 325 points
2nd Albini – 266 points
3rd Anthony – 260 points
4th Mazenod – 259 points
5th Gerard – 257 points
6th Charlebois – 239 points
7th Cebula – 236 points
8th MacKillop – 195 points

NEW JOBS PEOPLE WILL HAVE BY 2030

Speculation about future jobs seems to be everywhere. This list is from The CheatSheet. Some of the jobs have been in other futuristic job lists published previously in this bulletin, so they haven’t been included here.

- Bots – Bots will create fake social media accounts to astound a client’s business and marketing efforts.
- Meme agents – We have agents for celebrities of every other kind, so in the future, even stars of internet memes will have representation.
- Big data doctors – Big data already has a growing influence in many industries, and health care could be next, with a new class of medical practitioners who treat based on a patient’s biographic profile and personal data.
- Crowd funding specialists – With the popularity of crowdfunding websites like Kickstarter and IndieGoGo, there’s a growing need for expert advisers to help fundraisers promote their causes.
- Jobs of the future specialist/recruiter – The quickly changing job market isn’t going to slow down anytime soon, so a professional specialising in careers of the future will have tremendous value to job seekers.
- Disorganiser/corporate disruptor – A corporate disruptor will be called upon to shake things up at businesses whose systems and processes have gone stale.

FIVE HABITS OF SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE

The following article is from the Skirroll road website. While it doesn’t specifically apply to study, you could use the habits listed below to fine tune your current study routine.

You only have to read some biographies of great people, like Stephen Spielberg or Oprah Winfrey to realise that success has more to do with consistency and similarity than with chance. We’ve researched some of these biographies to make this list of habits many of them have in common.

- They wake up early. Research has shown, not only are early risers more optimistic and conscientious, they also anticipate problems and overcome them more efficiently.
- They plan. Successful people set goals, reflect and learn from their mistakes. Often they use some kind of notebook to achieve this. Famous people, like Eminem and J K Rowling keep a journal to move their memories forward.
- They take action. Making plans and goals will not take you anywhere unless you take the necessary steps to fulfill them (an action plan). Don’t be overwhelmed by goals if they are big. Break them down into smaller, manageable pieces that you can action – but take action!
- They look after their health. Successful people understand the truth behind healthy body, healthy mind. Eating right and exercising mind and body is part of their routine, as it is getting enough sleep (that means eight hours a day).
- They welcome failure as a part of learning. Nobody has ever achieved without having had to overcome obstacles. As Oprah Winfrey once said, “Turn your wounds into wisdom”.

PLAY YOUR ROLE 2016

Spring sport is underway and all teams contributed to an excellent weekend of sport against St Patrick’s. The performance of our younger tennis teams were the result of good preparation and organisation - it is hoped that they will continue to improve and lay the foundation for future tennis success. Our basketballers toiled in tight games and face St Laurence’s this weekend, a formidable force in AIC basketball.

Our Years 5 / 6 rugby league team competed in the Broncos Challenge against local Bayside schools and played attacking league to win that competition.

As the basketball, tennis and track and field competitions become more intense over the coming weeks, Iona will need to train and play well to meet the increasing standards of AIC competition. The over riding behaviour and attitude must be: Think before you speak, act with respect and humility as well as play in the spirit of the game.

Results (Round 1)
The 1st V played well in a tight game and with the game on the line in Years 7 versus St Laurence’s, a formidable force in AIC basketball.

Team Photos
Basketball Team Photos will be taken this Saturday for Years 10 - Open teams playing at Iona. Players are to meet outside the McCarthy building 45 minutes before their game.

Tennis Team Photos will also be taken this Saturday. Years 10 - Open photos will be taken at 7.30am at the Wynnum Tennis Centre. The Year 9 tennis photo will be taken at 7.30am outside the McCarthy building at Iona College.
